

Steven Mundahl currently serves as Faculty Practitioner within the graduate programs in nonprofit management and philanthropy. To this role, he brings extensive first-hand experience in nonprofit leadership and management.

Currently, Mundahl is President and CEO for Goodwill Industries of the Springfield/Hartford, Inc. where he has full agency responsibility. The 250 employee, $8 million agency provides program services to 900 consumers annually. Before moving to the Pioneer Valley in 2005, Mundahl was the Vice President of Good Will Industries of Central North Carolina where he had oversight of the marketing, public relations, development, and commercial services functions.

Mundahl came to the nonprofit field with a rich background in the publishing business. Starting as a newspaper reporter, Mundahl rose through the ranks to eventually become the publisher of Michelson Media Company in New Ulm, MN. He joined the management team of the Tribune Media Company (1983-1986) and eventually started his own publishing company, serving as president and owner of Lifestyles Press, Inc. /Mature Lifestyles (1986-1999).

Mundahl completed his graduate work at the University of North Carolina. He earned dual Bachelor of Science degrees from Minnesota State University and Claregate College in London UK. Mundahl is a graduate of Goodwill Industries International's Executive Development Program, 2003.

Mundahl teaches Leadership and Personal Effectiveness. He is a member of the NMP Advisory Board and also holds many other community memberships including serving on the board of The Human Service Forum of The Pioneer Valley.